MISSION STATEMENT

To maintain a cohesive organization that serves its membership by promoting the art, science and professionalism of dentistry, and by communicating the value of optimal oral health to the community.

VOL. 55 OCTOBER '17 NO. 08

President's Message

by Gustavo M. Coutin, D.D.S. – NODA President

Dear Members,

October 2017 has arrived and we count our blessings that we have been spared the misery and misfortune that Texas and Florida have been subjected to from Hurricanes Harvey and Irma respectively. Now that fall weather starts settling in we can turn our attention to the start of college and NFL football, hunting and fishing for added distractions, rest and relaxation. As a Board, we are extremely fortunate and privileged to serve our members. It is only fitting that we acknowledge the excellence that the New Orleans Dental Association has maintained over the years by recognizing the hard working and loyal members to our community. We therefore have approved a resolution to publicly recognize and thank our loyal, current members by highlighting them in a full-page advertisement in the front section of the Sunday Times- Picayune newspaper. Your patients will see that you belong and participate in an organization that promotes organized excellence, professionalism and service to our community.

The October NODA General Membership meeting will take place at Jack Dempsey's on the 18th of the month. This is always a very much anticipated meeting as the venue is a uniquely New Orleans restaurant. The LDA House of Delegates will be meeting at an earlier time this coming year as it will NOT take place during the New Orleans Dental Conference. If you served as a delegate this past year and would like to serve again, please contact the NODA office. If you have not served previously and would like to serve, also please contact the NODA office. Nominations for the NODA Board of Governors will appear in the November issue of NODA News. If anyone is interested in serving your profession, please contact any of the current board members. We certainly welcome your participation and input.

The Board has unanimously decided to bring back NODA News in print form again, as well as the NODA Membership Directory. We hope that it provides you with a readily accessible tool to stay abreast of your membership benefits and responsibilities. Happy Halloween!

What Higher Interest Rates Could Mean for Your Investments – Part 1

The Federal Reserve's recent interest rate increases mark an important shift in economic policy that could affect the markets in both the short and long term. Although it's generally best to keep your overall strategy tied to your personal goals and situation and not react every time there's up or down movement in the market, here's what the recent actions may mean to investors like you.

Why have interest rates been low—and why has the Fed started to raise them?

In 2008, the Fed slashed interest rates to near zero to help the economy climb out of the Great Recession. Economists believe that move played a key role in supporting the economic recovery that followed. When Fed policymakers met in December 2015, they saw an economy and job market that looked healthy and likely to keep improving, so they initiated a small rate increase. Since then, two additional rate increases have followed. In short, the Fed is increasing rates because it's seen so much improvement in the U.S. economy, and wants to prolong that health.

Federal Reserve Chair Janet Yellen has said that the Fed expects to make further, gradual interest rate increases throughout 2017 and 2018. How might interest rate increases affect my investments?

You can expect the value of your investments to fluctuate more than it has over the past few years as markets adjust to higher rates, as well as the unknowns surrounding how new trade policies and tax reform plans might play out.

Some investors are especially concerned about the impact the Fed's rate increase may have on their bond investments because rising interest rates push down bond values in the near term. This concern is understandable, and in fact some bonds or bond funds may experience short-term declines. But the Fed has said repeatedly that future rate increases are likely to be small and gradual, which may minimize the impact on bonds. Moreover, for long-term investors—like virtually everyone saving for retirement or other future goals—rising interest rates may actually be good news. The reason: Over time, higher rates make it possible for bonds to pay more interest.

Next month, we will continue our discussion of what the rising interest rates mean to you.

Best wishes in your clinic's continued success,
Drew Necaie and
Michael Minvielle

Important note on bond funds: Return of principal is not guaranteed. Bond funds have the same interest rate, inflation and credit risks that are associated with the underlying bonds owned by the fund. Generally, the value of bond funds rises when prevailing interest rates fall and falls when interest rates rise. There are ongoing fees and expenses associated with owning shares of bond funds.

 AMERICA'S DENTAL MEETING®

Working Together to Make Cancer History

Wed., Oct. 18 | 11 a.m. – 5:15 p.m. | ADA 2017 – America's Dental Meeting

As a dentist, you know that oral health is an integral part of overall health.

The American Cancer Society estimated number of new oral cancer and oropharyngeal cancer cases in the U.S. in 2017 is 49,670. These cancers account for 2.9% of all cancers diagnosed in the U.S. and 1.6% of all cancer deaths.

The victims are not just statistics — they could be your family, friends and patients.

A first-time ever symposium at ADA 2017 – America's Dental Meeting now provides you with a unique opportunity to learn from experts in dentistry and medicine as well as survivors what advances have been made and what you can do to help improve health outcomes.

Bringing together experts from the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center, University of Chicago, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the American Dental Association's Science and Practice Institutes, the symposium will deepen your knowledge about:

- the relationship between HPV infection and oropharyngeal cancer
- emerging treatments — protons, robots and immune targets
- long-term impact of current therapies
- clinical practice guidelines for screening of oral lesions
- the dentist's role in oral cancer education and prevention
- why experts believe HPV vaccination, for girls and boys alike, is a key component of cancer prevention
- coordinated prevention and treatment among dentists and physicians

Let's work together to make cancer history.

Arm yourself with the cutting-edge information you need on the front lines of health care to make a real difference in the lives of your patients.

REGISTER TODAY: ADA.org/ADA17OralCancer

The cost for the symposium includes:

- 4.5 hours of CERP CE / 4.5 CME credits
- Luncheon
- All-access pass to ADA 2017 (including CE courses, Exhibit Hall, Opening General Session, ADA 2017 Block Party, Distinguished Speaker Series and additional social and professional networking events)
