BOW BILL TOPS LIST OF NEW MOVES IN HEALTH-CARE-OF-AGED CONTROVERSY

Two conflicting surveys, the announcement of a giant rally in New York City, the formation of a physicians' group favoring the King-Anderson bill and yet another method of financing medical care for the aged were some of the more recent developments in the continuing controversy over how the nation's senior citizens should pay their health bills.

Bow bill -- Top item was the introduction into the House, by Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-O.), of a proposal to supply free health insurance for all 17,000,000 Americans who are 65 or older. The bill received the immediate support of Rep. William E. Miller (R-N.Y.), who is national chairman of the Republican party. Miller urged all House Republicans to rally behind the In essence, the Bow new proposal. bill would provide a tax credit for the amounts spent for medical insurance by a person over 65. The maximum credit would be $125. For those who do not presently have insurance, and whose income tax is less than $125, a governmental cash allowance would be provided. The estimated first year cost would be about $2 billion, more than the Kennedy administration's first-year estimates for the King-Anderson bill.

Other Republican leaders reacted coolly to Miller's announcement of support, many of them echoing the statement of Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.), chairman of the House Republican Policy committee, who said that the Bow bill "doesn't represent any (party) policy that was made through normal channels..." However, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) announced that he was considering introducing a companion bill to Bow's into the Senate.

Polls Conflict -- Two recently released polls yielded conflicting results concerning the public's attitude toward linking health care of the aged with the Social Security system. A Gallup poll showed that 55 per cent favored the Social Security approach; 34 per cent favored use of private health insurance and 11 per cent were undecided. In a breakdown of the survey, Gallup's results were:

New Insurance Plan in Michigan

A new group dental insurance program underwritten by the Michigan Life Insurance Company is now being offered to residents of that state. It operates on a "cost-sharing" basis with the individual through the use of co-insurance, under which payments are made at the rate of 80 cents on the dollar, and deductible amounts which are initially paid by the individual. Deductible amounts apply to three treatment categories, general dental services, denture replacements and orthodontic treatment. For general dental services the deductible is $25 for the first policy year and $10 each subsequent year; for denture replacements and orthodontic treatments the deductible is $50 for each policy year.

Maximum benefits per policy year are $400 for the individual and $1,000 for a family. Each participant can select his own dentist. The wives and unmarried children up to age 19 of the insured are also covered by the program, the cost of which is borne by the employer or welfare fund subscribing to the plan.

Of those over 60 years of age, 57 per cent favored the Social Security approach and 31 per cent, private insurance; those between the ages of 21 and 29, Social Security was favored by 48 per cent and private insurance by 40 per cent.

A compilation of polls taken by individual Congressmen (which were not weighted, according to income, age, etc. to reflect the national population as is a Gallup poll) showed that 16 of the polls had a majority opposing the Social Security approach and 11 of the polls had a majority in favor of it. Rep. Thomas Curtis (R-Mo.), who announced these results, said that, overall the split was about 60-40 against the Social Security approach.

Administration Efforts -- A group of physicians, mostly educators, met with President Kennedy on March 27 and afterwards issued a statement from the White House announcing they supported medical care for the aged under Social Security. Perhaps the best known of the 43 who signed the statement were Dr. Benjamin Spock and Dr. Leona Baumgartner, commissioner of the New York City Dep't of Health.

President Kennedy also announced that he will address a rally of aged citizens in New York City on May 20. The speech may be televised nationally. The rally is being held by the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care through Social Security. The group is headed by former Rep. Aime Forand who, while he was in Congress, introduced legislation which was the forerunner of the present King-Anderson proposals.

ADA --Dr. Matthew Besdine, chairman of the ADA Council on Legislation, announced that there will be no let-up in the ADA's activities in this area. He urged ADA members to write their Congressmen about the King-Anderson bill.

Tennessee Starts Education Fund Drive

A pilot program launched by Tennessee dentists to raise funds for dental education has brought in more than $17,000 to date. "With only 600 of the state's 1,200 dentists solicited thus far, this campaign promises to become the most successful ever conducted in dental history," said Dr. Harold Ziehm of Elizabethton, state campaign chairman. Thus far, over 562 contributions have been received, ranging from $1 to $500, with an average donation of $27. Co-sponsored by the Tennessee State Dental Association and the Fund for Dental Education, the campaign permits the dentist to determine how he wants his gift to be spent.

"Contributions will be shared by four institutions, the L.G. Noel Foundation, which is the local philanthropic arm of the state society, the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry, Meharry School of Dentistry, and the Fund for Dental Education. explained Willard King, executive secretary of the Fund for Dental Education. Preparations for the campaign, which was encouraged by Dr. E. Jeff Justis, Memphis, ADA trustee, and Dr. Oren A. Oliver, Nashville, president of the Noel Foundation, began a year ago. Tennessee was selected as pilot state because of its "energetic, aggressive dental leadership and its success in previous campaigns," King "It is planned to make this an annual campaign in Tennessee and we feel certain this action will inspire other state societies to follow this pilot plan," he concluded.
